Description

FACTORY ALARM SECURITY UPGRADE

Many factory car alarms monitor doors, the hood and other factory security inputs but may not detect the sound of a window breaking. The Directed 506T Glass Break Sensor can add acoustic glass-break detection to a compatible factory alarm system, helping alert you to a potential vehicle break-in.

At Access 1 Alarm & Audio, we professionally install and integrate the sensor with compatible factory vehicle security systems. Continue using your original factory key fob to arm and disarm your existing alarm, with added glass-break detection when the system is armed.

Glass Break Detection

Detects acoustic signatures associated with breaking vehicle glass.

Keep Your Factory Remote

Retain your original key fob on compatible factory alarm systems.

Professional Integration

Installed and configured by experienced automotive security technicians.

What's Included?

- Directed Electronics 506T acoustic glass break sensor
- Professional installation and integration with a compatible factory alarm
- Sensor adjustment and functional testing
- Continued operation using your original factory key fob

PARTS & LABOR INCLUDED

Factory Alarm Compatibility

The 506T is an accessory sensor, not a complete alarm system. Your vehicle must have a compatible alarm or security interface capable of responding to the sensor's trigger signal.

Not every factory alarm supports this upgrade.

Our technicians will verify your vehicle's security system before installation. Glass-break detection supplements existing alarm protection but does not independently prevent unauthorized unlocking, key programming or vehicle starting.

Want More Independent Vehicle Security?

Factory key fob-controlled upgrades rely on compatible factory security functions. For additional protection independent of factory disarming commands, ask us about a dedicated aftermarket alarm with its own remote control and available starter-disable features.

Professional Installation & Warranty

The Directed 506T sensor includes a one-year manufacturer warranty. Professional installation by Access 1 Alarm & Audio includes our lifetime labor warranty for the original vehicle owner, subject to warranty terms.
